Little Things Mean a Lot

A holiday show and sale of over two hundred works of art in all mediums by a multitude of contemporary Georgia artists

November 15, 2007 - January 12, 2008

Opening Reception

Thursday, November 15 6 to 8pm

Marianne B. Lambert, Curator

OPEN TUESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM

It has become clear to us that little things mean a lot. Since 2003, the Swan Coach House Gallery has presented this exhibition of small artwork for the holidays, and over the years it has grown to become our most eagerly anticipated show.

In light of the popularity of this exhibition, I have invited a whole new group of Georgia artists to submit their small creations this year. Once again you will see wonderful works from every medium: including painting, drawing, sculpture, photography, printmaking, collage, fiber and ceramics. This show provides a unique opportunity for many artists to work in a smaller scale, so most of the pieces have been made especially for our exhibition. It is gratifying to see how many artists love participating in Little Things Mean a Lot. It is also gratifying to see how many people love seeing and buying these smaller works of art.

This is the Swan Coach House Gallery's holiday treat for you. We hope you continue to enjoy it as much as we do.

Happy holidays,
Marianne B. Lambert, Curator

This exhibit is sponsored by Charles and Eleanor Barton
